WRIGLEY'S P-K

This new sugar-coated gum delights young and old. It "melts in your mouth" and the gum in the center remains to aid digestion, brighten teeth and soothe mouth and throat.

There are the other WRIGLEY friends to choose from, too:

US SHEETROCK

"The Fireproof Wallboard"

It Stays Put

After Sheetrock is nailed to the studs or joists, it stays put as long as the building stands. Sheetrock walls and ceilings can not warp; they can not shrink or buckle; and they are fireproof—because Sheetrock is made from rock. Whether you are planning on remodeling the old home or building a new one, you will certainly first want to inspect Sheetrock.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The placebo little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquid or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "joky" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "pink up" the spirits, 15c and 30c.

With more than 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn in the country worth rather less than coal, we ought not to starve to death even if it is going to be a hard winter.

WHAT ARE "MORALS?"

The children's court in New York has summoned more than 200 of the city's educators, editors and other prominent men and women for symposium on the subject. Has a child of five morals?—as the result of a legal contention in a case on trial. What are morals? There is no question but that a child of five, properly brought up, knows that it is wrong to steal or to lie, says the St. Louis Star. How does he know it's wrong? Because he knows that he will be punished if he does either. But the argument will be made that the child is swayed by fear and not by morality. A man of thirty is tempted to steal but refrains. Why? Often, too often, it is because he is afraid of apprehension and punishment. Consciously or subconsciously there is fear of reprisal; if not in this world, then in the next. There are those who will claim that they do the right thing because it is right. How do they know it is right? Is it because the experience of generations has shown that punishment inevitably follows failure to do certain things a certain way?

The student of ethics can perhaps show that fear does not always enter into a consideration of right or wrong, but it will require convincing evidence to prove that the boy of five and the man of twenty-five are not morally swayed by the same shadow—the fear of punishment.

The troubles in the Malabar district in southwest British India seem to have arisen primarily from searches and arrests made under proper warning for violation of the district law against the possession of offensive weapons, but the Moors, the people who have done most of the rioting, looting, burning and killing, need no particular provocation to indulge in their ancient habits. Supposed to be the descendants of Arabs that emigrated to India a thousand years ago, they have never lost the fierce fanaticism of the desert. Time and again they have risen, slaughtered the Hindus and the English imperially, says the New York Times. There are about 1,000,000 of them, and they belong to the days of the heathen rather than to those of the new Indian legislature. They are only one of the thousand anomalies, survivals and disparities of that country of vast heterogeneous populations and civilizations to which the modern democratic forms of government are tentatively and cautiously applied.

Two Kinds of Thinkers.

There are two kinds of people in the world—word people and fact people. The former deal in words and phrases and form their judgments on opinions and beliefs. The latter analyze questions and draw conclusions only from the point of view of what they believe to be established facts. The word man starts with a shadowy condition and fashions his facts to produce that result. The fact man analyzes his subject, seeks to establish the truth in regard to facts which have a bearing on it and then fearlessly draws what he believes to be honest conclusions. His process is like the working out of a mathematical problem; he does not know what the answer will be until the last figure is made. He thinks forward, while the word man thinks backward.

MOTOR CAR QUESTIONS

How can we get the fun that comes with an old fashioned sleigh ride?

Does it harm the car to use it when stored in a cold building?

Answered

Get the open car out, fill it with warm robes, over the cushions and backs, and over the passengers. Go for short rides no longer than you used to take in the sleigh and dressed as you did for the sleigh ride.

It need not harm the car to start it when cold if proper methods and proper oils are used.
